Amari & Locallo Announces the Opening of Our New Office in Bloomingdale

Since 1986, the Law Offices of Amari & Locallo have represented commercial, industrial and multi-unit residential property owners in their real estate needs with a concentration in reducing unfair and inequitable real estate taxes. Historically, the firm handled properties in Cook and the collar counties, including: Lake, DuPage, Will, Kane and McHenry Counties.

With the growth of the population to the outlying areas, the collar counties and beyond, the Law Offices of Amari & Locallo established an office in DuPage County, Illinois in 1999 to better service those real estate property owners. As the expertise, experience, and success of the firm became known in the outlying areas, it constructed its own facility in Bloomingdale, Illinois, with attorneys, analysts and staff to service the real estate and real estate tax needs of clients throughout the state of Illinois with an emphasis in Cook and the collar counties.

Located at 236 West Lake Street, Bloomingdale, Illinois, the firm is involved in community activities, including the political process and township and county affairs. Amari & Locallo has a newly constructed commercial facility, with state-of-the-art technology and office amenities, and provides the same expertise of personnel and experience as has been the case at its Chicago location
